

SHOOTING CAUSES MUCH EXCITEMENT

Two Shooting Affrays in One Evening And None of the Participants Are Known.

ONE MAN REPORTED INJURED

Six Shots Fired About Nine O'clock But Bystanders Were Unable To Identify Party.

Two mysterious shooting affairs occurred in the city Tuesday evening, but evidently the participants do not crave notoriety for they have been able to keep their names from the public. At the time the shots were fired there were a number of witnesses but none of them could recognize the parties.

The first affray took place about 5:30 o'clock in the alley at the rear of the interurban station. It was witnessed by a number of persons who relate different stories about it. One bystander said that his attention was first attracted by two men running down the alley. Suddenly the one in the rear fired a shot which was followed by two others. When the second shot was fired the man who was in front fell to the ground and at the same time gave out a loud groan. When the fourth shot was fired the man supposed to have been injured arose and continued to run down the alley followed by his pursuer. The man who did the shooting was described as being of medium height and wore a black suit. The other man was about the same height and wore a light overcoat and light cap.

Several persons declare they saw the man fall and believing that he was injured telephoned to the police, but were unable to get them. They say that they were unable to see where the men ran and lost sight of them after they had gone a short distance down the alley.

Another man who was walking along Ewing street near the alley about the time the shots were fired, stated that he did not see but one man, and he was the one who had possession of the revolver. The witness explained, however, that there might have been a second man as he was some distance from the alley and the man may have run out of the alley before he could see him. The witness stated that as he passed the party who did the shooting he seemed to be afraid that he would be recognized and pulled his coat collar up over his face. The reports of the shots were heard plainly at the B. & O. S-W. passenger depot but persons who were there knew nothing about the affair. He said the man was laughing quietly to himself and he was of the opinion that the shots had been fired to create a little disturbance.

The second disturbance occurred about 9 o'clock on Indianapolis avenue near the alley. Six shots were fired there and a number of persons who were leaving the Nickel Electric theatre saw the flash of the pistol. A number of men were close to the parties who did the shooting but the names of them have not been definitely ascertained.

The police say that no complaints were filed with them regarding the matter and although they made some investigation on their own account, they could not find out who had done the shooting. It is the general belief that the affrays were the result of a drunken melee.

GEORGE LUMPKIN DEAD.

Was Father of O. D. Lumpkin, of This City.

George Lumpkin, aged eighty-five years, died suddenly at his home in Fayette Tuesday morning. He was in his usual health and while eating breakfast was stricken with apoplexy and died a few minutes later. He was a well known farmer and owned considerable property. At one time he was a preacher in the Christian church and delivered a sermon here about ten years ago. He is survived by his wife and seven children.

Largely Democratic.

According to the redistricting map which has just been proposed by the senate, the district in which Jackson county is placed, will be largely democratic. The new district would be known as the Third and be composed of twelve counties. At the last presidential election the twelve counties gave W. J. Bryan a plurality of 1807 votes. The legislature is looking after the interests of the democratic party in the redistricting and are boasting that all of the districts will be normally democratic with the exception of the Tenth. They say that the only reason that it was not democratic was that there was no way to change it so as to give a safe democratic plurality.

Pythian Sisters Meeting.

The members of Success Temple, No. 310, Pythian Sisters, held a very pleasant and profitable meeting Monday evening at the K. of P. hall. A large crowd was in attendance, among whom was a large number of ladies and gentlemen from Uniontown. After the business session was concluded the meeting was taken in charge by a committee who had planned a very nice entertainment. During the social time an elegant luncheon was served. Those who were in charge are deserving of much credit for the success of the evening.

Funeral Services.

The funeral services of the late Mrs. Mary McGinnis were held from the family residence Tuesday afternoon, conducted by the Rev. James H. Hawk, pastor of the Presbyterian church. The services which were in charge of the Relief Corps, were largely attended. Burial at River-view cemetery.

Missionary Meeting.

The Ladies' Missionary Society of the First Baptist church will hold their regular monthly meeting Thursday (tomorrow) afternoon at 2:30 o'clock with Mrs. Jerry Anderson on south Chestnut street.

MORE ABOUT ROCKFORD.

J. F. Fislar Says "Rambler" is Mistaken in Several Facts.

J. F. Fislar, who resides near Seymour, and is one of the early residents of Jackson county, writes this paper regarding some of the facts as told by "The Rambler" in a recent letter.

Mr. Fislar says that Dr. Samuel Wirt, one of the early physicians, did not live at Rockford but that his home was at Brownstown. Dr. Wirt came from Pennsylvania, he says, and located at Brownstown and did not live at any other place. He was a good physician and had a large practice all over the county. Mr. Fislar says he has gone many miles with Dr. Wirt to answer the calls of sick patients.

Mr. Fislar continues, "The Rambler" says that in the early 20's a Scotchman came to Rockford and established large mills and after his death the business was carried on by the Peters Brothers. The fact is Fishley was a German and along about 1834 or 1835 he had a few German families to come over from Germany and they settled a mile or two east of Rockford. Some of their descendants still live in this county. After Fishley's death a young man from Germany came and took possession of the property but he got to drinking and drank himself to death in a short time. Then his brother came over but lived but a short time. The State of Indiana claimed the property and some time afterwards a man by the name of Gaalap came from Germany and proved his heirship. He employed Judge Otto, of New Albany, and entered into a suit to recover the property.

"After some time Gaalap gained possession of the property and sold it to different parties. Gaalap has not been dead a great many years. He was afterwards president of the Jeffersonville Railroad for some time.

"In regard to Dr. Monroe having two boys drowned at Rockford. I was intimately acquainted with Dr. Monroe and his family from the time he came to this county in 1848 until his death, and I know he only had one boy drowned.

"I was born in 1824 in the western part of Grassyfork township not more than six or seven miles from Vallonia and grew to manhood in that neighborhood, and it seems strange that I never heard of that load of walnuts until I saw 'The Rambler's' account of it in your paper."

OIL EXCITEMENT

In Eastern Lawrence County is Growing.

The oil excitement around Heltonville in the eastern part of Lawrence county is increasing. The Heltonville, Bedford Oil & Gas Company has decided to sink another well in that section and work will begin as soon as the drillers can get the derrick and other machinery in place. The first well which was drilled some time ago is showing an increase of output daily. It was pumped it is thought it would yield 25 barrels a day and the oil is of splendid quality.

The stockholders of the company are enthusiastic and believe there is a rich field around Heltonville. It is stated that the Standard people are taking an interest in the field and one leading oil man says it is the best prospect of any field in the country now being tested.

MORE FIREMEN PROMOTED.

Five Will Become Engineers on the B. & O. S-W. Thursday.

Thursday morning five additional firemen will be promoted to engineers. The promotions at this time are made because several of the firemen who were eligible so far as time of service was concerned, failed to pass the required examination.

The firemen who will be promoted are: Albert Cunningham, Raymond Aleslager, L. N. Springer, George Gottberg and W. C. Palmer. They have been employed as fireman for two years.

SWITCHMAN LOST ARM IN ACCIDENT

Henry Marshall Struck by Cars in B. & O. S-W. Yards at Mitchell and is Injured.

FORMERLY LIVED AT SEYMOUR

Several Years Ago He Moved to Mitchell Where He Was Foreman of Switching Crew.

Henry Marshall, formerly of this city, foreman of the B. & O. S-W. switching crew at Mitchell, met with an accident in the railroad yards at that place this morning in which he lost his right arm. The injury was such that it was necessary to amputate his arm above the elbow. He is reported to be resting very well.

When the accident occurred Marshall had started to walk across the track when he was struck by a cut of several cars which were moved by the switch engine. He did not realize his danger until the cars were too close for him to jump from the track. When the cars hit him he was thrown to the track in such a manner that his right arm was under the wheels. The railroad men who saw the accident thought that he would be killed or more seriously injured. He was removed to his home where a physician was called.

Marshall was formerly a resident of Seymour and was employed at the Goyert-Vogel Poultry Company. After taking employment as a switchman he was transferred to the Mitchell yards. He has been in the employ of the company only a few years.

ECZEMA CURE A BEAUTY WASH

Although D. D. Prescription has been recognized for years as the one remedy for Eczema, Psoriasis, and all other forms of skin diseases, it is now known that there is no other wash, even those used by the beauty specialists, that can compare with this mild liquid for cleansing the skin of pimples, blackheads, rash, and all similar skin affections.

For this reason alone, a bottle of D. D. D. should be kept on hand in every household. A trial 25c bottle will show you the merits of this great remedy as a complexion wash.

D. D. D. seems to remove the cause, whatever the trouble may be, cleansing the skin, and leaving it as soft, as smooth and clear as that of a healthy child.

Afternoon at Home.

Mrs. H. R. Kyte and daughter, Miss Gladys Kyte, were at home to a number of their friends Tuesday afternoon in honor of their house guests, Mrs. Frank Maddox and Miss Estelle Torbett, of Ada, Oklahoma.

Miss Harriet Montgomery greeted the guests at the door. The receiving line in the music room was composed of Mrs. Kyte, Mrs. Maddox, Miss Torbett, Miss Kyte and Mrs. Bartley. Miss Mary Lee Galbraith presided over the register. Selections rendered by Miss Edna Dobbins added much to the pleasure of the afternoon. In the dining room Mrs. Herbert Dell and Mrs. Scott Applewhite very gracefully poured tea and coffee which were served by Misses Helen Galbraith, Marguerite Miller and Luella Toms. The house throughout was prettily decorated with red hearts and smilax. The color scheme of red and white was carried out in the flowers, favors and the candy.

Mrs. Maddox, formerly Miss Gladys Torbett, and Miss Kyte were room mates at Belmont College.

Methodist Revival.

The best interest that has been shown so far in these meetings was manifested last night when eight persons came forward for the prayers of the church. The pastor took for his theme the rich young man who came to Jesus and inquired the way of salvation, found in the 19th chapter of Matthew. "If thou wilt be perfect." It was shown that there are different plans on which different persons live in God's service. Most are satisfied with the mere "letter of the law" and seek to get through with just a little hardship as is possible. The hopes of Jesus were aroused when this young man asked for a higher path in which to live, and "He loved him and opened to him the highest secrets of His own infinite life. Persons today can have this same privilege of living this "perfect" or highest possible christian life if they are willing to pay the price, and place all they have on the altar of God."

Meetings each day at 2:30 and 7:30.

Improving.

George Broeker, a brakeman on the B. & O. S-W., who was injured in a fall from a freight car at Storrs Tuesday, is improving. It will be some time, however, before he can resume his work on the road.

Mrs. Haskell Lett has returned home from a visit with friends at Pittsfield, Ill. She was accompanied by her friend, Miss Vida Nighbert.

D. A. Lucas is working for the Standard Loan Company. He went to Columbus this morning.

The members of the Eastern Star are planning to attend a meeting of the Columbus chapter next week.

Ladies stop at A. Sciarra's and see the beautiful line of samples just arrived for tailor made garments. ff

SCARLET FEVER CASES.

Only Three Quarantines in the City For This Disease.

According to the records of the secretary of the city Board of Health, Dr. James H. Carter, there are but three cases of scarlet fever in the city at this time. Under the provisions of the quarantine law all such cases must be reported to the secretary of the health board by the attending physicians. The cases which are reported are all confined under a strict quarantine in order that there may not be a spread of the disease.

There were several other cases of scarlet fever last week, but quarantines have been raised from all except three. Several of the cases which have been reported have been very light, but the health board must quarantine these as closely as if they were more pronounced. It is believed that there will not be a general epidemic, as all cases are improving.

Married at Jeffersonville.

The marriage of Phillip Redinger, of Seymour and Miss Anna Bauer, of Jeffersonville, took place Monday evening at 7 o'clock at the bride's home. After the wedding the couple left for a ten days' trip after which they will come to Seymour and reside with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Redinger, south of the city. The marriage came as quite a surprise to the groom's friends. He is a young man of high standing in the community and the bride is popular in her home city. They have the congratulations and best wishes of their many friends.

Birthday Surprise.

John Beckemeir, near Walsboro, was eighty-four years old last Sunday and in honor of the anniversary his daughters prepared a pleasant surprise for him. When he returned from church in the morning he found over forty of his relatives assembled at his home. A splendid dinner was served and the remainder of the day was pleasantly spent.

NEW CANADIAN RECIPROCITY BECOMES BIG POLITICAL ISSUE

United States, the Dominion and England Stirred by Agreement For Reduction of Customs Duties.

Democrats and Progressive Republicans Join With Liberals In Support of President Taft's Measure.

By JAMES A. EDGERTON.
CANADIAN reciprocity as agreed upon by President Taft and the Dominion government promises to be one of the biggest questions injected into American politics for many years. Already it is agitating the entire country, and especially that portion of it along the Canadian border, and is forcing new alignments in congress. There is serious doubt as to whether the president's recommendation will be approved by both houses at this session. It may not get through either house. The general opinion in Washington is that it will be passed by the house of representatives, however, and will be hung up without action in the senate.

Properly speaking, the agreement is not a treaty at all. It is simply a recommendation by the two governments that their respective legislatures enact into law certain tariff provisions affecting the two countries. The bill embodying these recommendations must take exactly the same course as any other tariff measure. In the case of our own congress this means that it must originate in the house and be passed by that body before it goes to the senate. A majority vote in each house will carry it to the president for approval.

If the understanding were really a treaty it would not go to the lower house at all, but would require ratification only in the senate, which would have to pass it by a two-thirds vote. Under the circumstances it is extremely fortunate for the reciprocity agreement that it is not a treaty.

Senate Doubtful of Status.

There was a question raised in the senate on this very point, and as a result the president's message was taken from the finance committee and referred to the foreign relations committee, which is the course a treaty would have to take. It was understood, however, that the foreign relations committee would simply pass on this one proposition, after which the measure would be returned to the finance committee.

As the matter now stands a majority of the Democrats favor the proposal and many of the Republicans, including some of the insurgents, oppose it. Champ Clark, who will be speaker of the next house, came out flatfootedly for Canadian reciprocity, and most of his supporters cheered his declaration. In the senate William J. Stone of Missouri has taken a similar stand. Among the Republicans Hale, Heyburn, McCumber, Oliver, Young and other regulars are unalterably hostile to the proposal. Beveridge, progressive, is for it, but some of the other progressives are in an embarrassing position.

On the one hand, Canadian reciprocity represents a step in the direction of tariff reduction, which they have long demanded; on the other, it takes the tariff from wheat and other farm products. These men come from agricultural states. Their contention is that it is not fair to remove the tariff from the things the farmer raises and leave it on manufactured products. They assert that the only benefit the farmer will receive from the arrangement is cheaper lumber. They also fear that it will increase the exodus of American farmers into Canada.

Price Reduction Predicted.

The advocates of the measure say that it will reduce prices and at the same time make it more difficult to corner the necessities of life, that it will build up the market for American goods across the border and that it will lead to better trade relations and more cordial feelings between the two countries. The railroads running into Canada and their connections in the United States are especially favorable to the agreement on the ground that it will increase their business.

Incidentally your Uncle Sam is somewhat doubtful also. Canadian trade looks good to him, and he needs or soon may need those vast wheatfields to help feed his millions. But when he thinks of his own farmers and wonders what the change will do to them the old man falls into a brown study.

There is one comforting thought. We are not the only ones in a quandary. The Canadians and the English are also doing a bit of thinking. The Conservatives in Great Britain are making a roar compared with which some of our own objections are mild. They see the loss of Canadian trade, the dearth of Canadian wheat, the stifling of Canadian industries and the entering wedge that may ultimately mean the annexation of the Dominion to the United States.

England "Jolly" Canada.

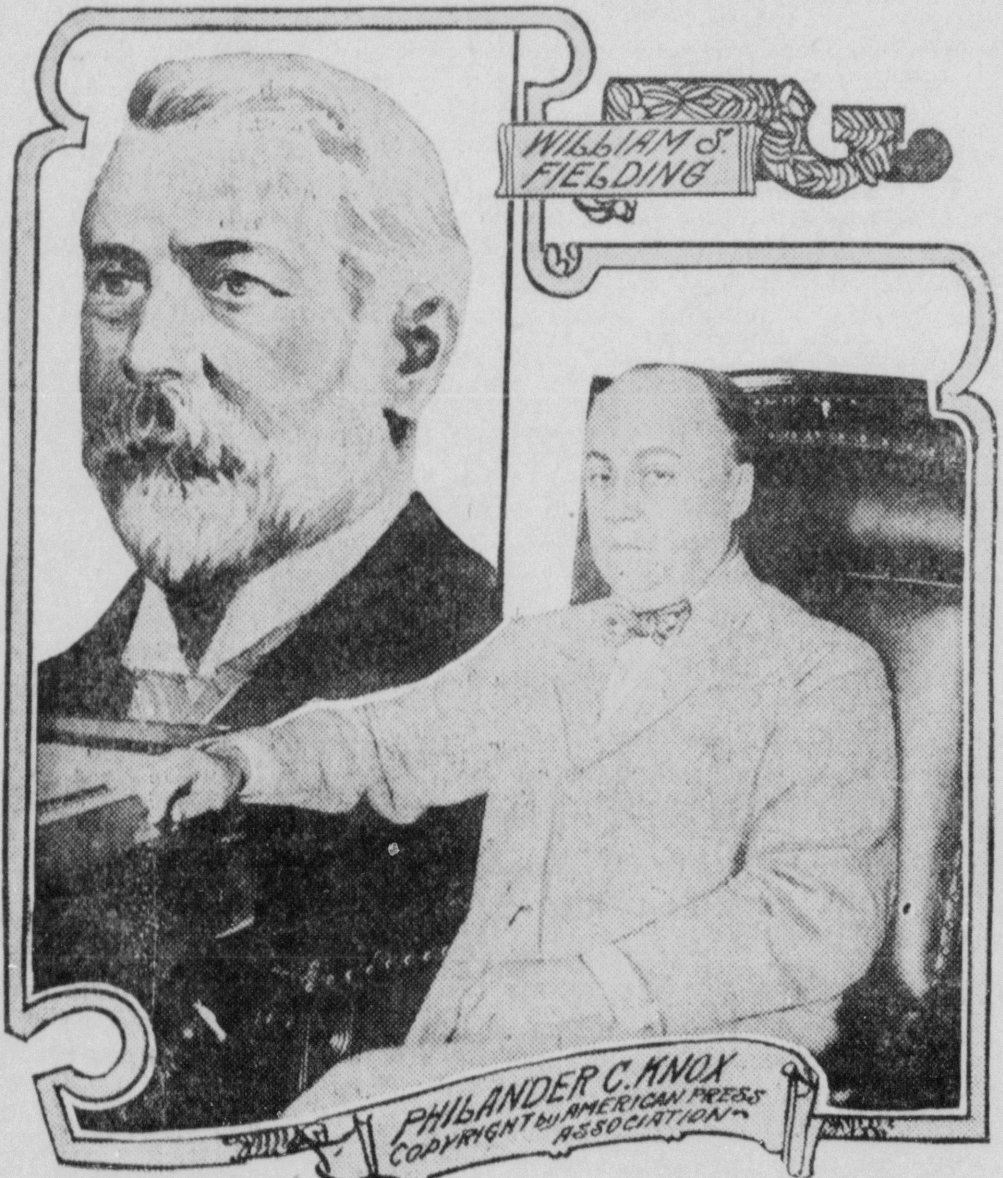

In this dilemma they welcome the selection of the king's uncle, the Duke of Connaught, as the new governor general of Canada. The Dominion is just now assuming an unwelcome importance in their eyes. They are even feeding the Canadians with large and assorted varieties of verbal taffy. Here is a sample: In fifty years the Dominion may so far outstrip the mother country that the king himself will reside in Montreal. This sort of pabulum does not go far with the hard headed Canadian farmer, however. He smiles cynically as he reflects that in the past the Dominion has given Great Britain everything and has received in return nothing but three cheers.

The Liberals in England take a far more composed view of the situation. Many favor the proposal of Canadian reciprocity with the United States on the ground that it will be a step in the direction of freer trade. The same general alignment is observed among the Canadians themselves. The Liberals support the measure; the Conservatives oppose. As the Liberals are in control both at London and Montreal, the groanings of the opposition will probably have little effect on the outcome. It is not without significance that it should be the Conservatives in Canada and England who fight the proposition and the standpatters who are against it in the United States.

Many Important Reductions.

The articles made free under the agreement generally cover foodstuffs and the necessities of life, including all kinds of live stock, grain, fresh vegetables and fruits, poultry, butter, eggs, fish and sea food, cottonseed oil, lumber and wood products, wire, some

Articles not on the free list, but considerably reduced, with the same rates applying to both countries, include all kinds of meats, flour, clocks and watches, automobiles, farm machinery and building stone. Reductions are also made on bituminous coal and other articles, but with different rates between the two countries.

There is confusion as to the wood pulp schedule for the reason that some of the Canadian provinces require that timber cut from crown lands must be manufactured into wood pulp in the province. An effort will be made by the Canadian government to have these restrictions removed. John Norris, representing the American Newspaper Publishers' association, believes the agreement if ratified will materially reduce the price of print paper.

The part President Taft has played in the negotiations has been notable. It will be recalled that last year he spent a memorable two days at Albany in consultation with the governor general of Canada, the minister of finance and other Dominion officials. It was then that the general outlines of the agreement were fixed, the commissioners from the two countries afterward working out the details. Second to the president perhaps the most important figures in the negotiations were W. S. Fielding, minister of finance for Canada, and Philander C. Knox, American secretary of state.

The president's second big play was his special message to congress recommending the approval of the agreement. The third move was his McKinley day speech, in which he quoted the dead president's reciprocity sentiments uttered the day before his assassination in Buffalo.

Will Mr. Taft's next move be to call a special session of congress? He has intimated that he is prepared to take that step if there is not a vote on the proposition in both houses of congress during the present session. He believes that the longer the country has to think over the proposal the more it will favor it and that eventually the agreement will be ratified. There is no doubt that he is ready to make a fight for the measure similar to that which he conducted for his legislative program in the last session.

Success Seems Assured.

With the large Democratic accessions in both houses in the new congress there is a belief that the proposal must ultimately go through. At least a part of the progressives are certain to favor it, and it is even possible that a majority will take that course. In addition many of the regulars will also line up with the administration.

The exact status of the agreement seems to be this: It must be ratified as a whole or rejected as a whole. There can be no amendments. It must receive a majority in both houses of congress. The new Democratic house will pass it without question, and it is probable that the present house will do the same. So far as the attitude of the present senate can be arrived at, it is hostile. The new senate will be more favorable, the only question being as to whether there will be enough new accessions favoring the proposal to carry it.

There are two views as to the effects of Canadian reciprocity on American farmers. One is that the tariff on farm products is of little or no benefit to the farmer since he produces a surplus above the amount needed for home consumption and the prices received are therefore fixed in the markets of the world. Advocates of this theory believe that the adoption of Canadian reciprocity will have a negligible effect on our farmers. At the same time it will not materially reduce prices to consumers. It will tend, however, to prevent grain corners and stock market manipulations.

The other view is that the free importation of Canadian farm products will reduce American prices and will attract hosts of American farmers to the cheaper lands of the Dominion. Supporters of this idea aver that the only American beneficiaries of reciprocity will be the consumer, the railroad and the manufacturer. In the matter of

Some of Burns' Phrases.

Here are a few specimens of Burns' happy phrases: "The best laid schemes of mice and men gang aft agley;" "The fear of hell's the hangman's whip, to hound the wretch in order;" "But pleasures are like poppies spread—you seize the flower, it's bloom is shed;" "Oh, wad some power the giffle gie us to see ourselves as ithers see us;" "Man's inhumanity to man makes countless thousands mourn;" "Nursing her wrath to keep it warm;" "The mirth and fun grew fast and furious;" "What's done we partly may compute, but know not what's resisted;" "Princes and lords are but the breath of kings;" "The rank is but the guinea stamp; a man's a man for a' that."

Thirty Years Together.

Thirty years of association—think of it. How the merit of a good thing stands out in that time—or the worthlessness of a bad one. So there's no guesswork in this evidence of Thos. Ariss, Concord, Mich., who writes: "I have used Dr. King's New Discovery for 30 years, and its the best cough and cold cure I ever used." Once it finds entrance in a home you can't pry it out. Many families have used it forty years. It's the most infallible throat and lung medicine on earth. Unequalled for lagrippe, asthma, hay-fever, croup, quinsy or sore lungs. Price 50c, $1.00. Pitt and the Peerage.

The exclusive and almost feudal character of the English peerage was destroyed finally and of set purpose by Pitt when he declared that every man who had an estate of $50,000 a year had a right to be a peer. In Lord Beaconsfield's words: "He created a plebeian aristocracy and blended it with the patrician oligarchy. He made peers of second rate squires and fat graziers. He caught them in the alleys of Lombard street and clutched them from the counting houses of Cornhill."—From "Collections and Recollections."

Attack Like Tigers.

In fighting to keep the blood pure the white corpuses attack disease germs like tigers. But often germs multiply so fast the little fighters are overcome. Then see pimples, boils, eczema, salt-rheum and sores multiply and strength and appetite fail. This condition demands Electric Bitters to regulate stomach, liver and kidneys and to expel poisons from the blood. "They are the best blood purifier," writes C. T. Budahn, of Tracy, Calif. "I have ever found." They make rich, red blood, strong nerves and build up your health. Try them. 50c at Andrews-Schwenk Drug Co.

Written on Trains.

As to writing in trains Mr. William Le Queux has told how he wrote his first novel on the morning and evening travels to and from town in the days when he was a subeditor on the Globe. But he sent his manuscript to a typist before a publisher. Sir Lewis Morris also confessed that he wrote most of the "Epic of Hades" in his journeys on the old steam traction underground. —London Chronicle

Accused of Stealing.

E. E. Chamberlain, of Clinton, Me., boldly accuses Bucklen's Arnica Salve of stealing—the sting from burns or scalds—the pain from sores of all kinds—the distress from boils or piles. "It robs cuts, corns, bruises, sprains and injuries of their terror," he says, "as a healing remedy its equal don't exist." Only 25c at Andrews-Schwenk Drug Co.

Announced Himself.

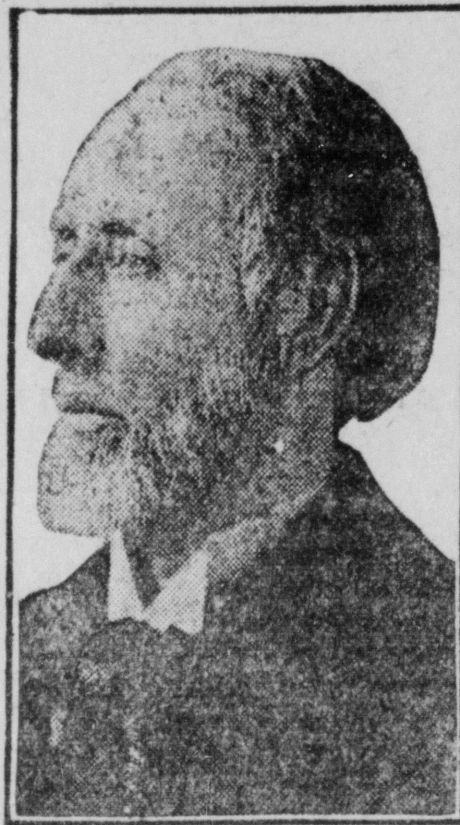

While looking for stragglers just as a Welsh regiment was about to sail from Cape Town for England an officer found a private standing at attention in a shed. "What are you doing here?" he was asked. "Please, sir," was the reply. "I am a lunatic, and I am waiting for the corporal's guard." He was right; he was a lunatic, and his guard had forgotten him.

DID YEGGMEN CAUSE THIS EXPLOSION?

Question That Is Being Asked At Montpelier.

Montpelier, Ind., Feb. 8.—When the magazine on the D. M. Spaulding farm, a mile northwest of the city, on the banks of the Salamonie river, was blown up, Montpelier was shaken by a nitroglycerin explosion.

The magazine belonged to the Dupont company. Eight hundred and fifty quarts of nitroglycerin was stored in the house. Nothing was left of the magazine, and if any lives were lost there is no way to prove it.

The cause of the explosion is not known, but it is possible yeggmen might have been getting a supply for burglary purposes, and if they were they will not tell the story. No fragments of human flesh have yet been found. The magazine had been robbed of a large quantity of the dangerous explosive several times.

The magazine was a supply house for the oil field near here, and it was one of the most valuable properties of the Dupont company in this part of the state. Officers of the powder company are of the opinion that the earth caved in and caused the explosion. The shock was felt many miles away, and telephones were kept busy answering calls from as far as Lima, O.

GARY'S TROUBLES

Labor Row Up There Has Developed Into a Four-Sided Quarrel.

Gary, Ind., Feb. 8.—A new situation is created in the Gary building strike by reason of the fact that the independent contractors have declared war on the contractors who are members of the Employers, Builders and Material Men's association. The battle is now a four-sided affair. The employers' association is fighting two groups of unions, the unions are fighting among themselves, and separate unions are fighting the two groups of contractors. Settlement seems to be further away than ever, although arbitration is being suggested.

SENTENCE AFFIRMED

Federal Court of Appeals Says Frank L. Higgins Must Go to Prison.

Cincinnati, Feb. 8.—Frank L. Higgins, former assistant postmaster at Sault Ste. Marie, Mich., will have to serve the sentence given against him in the United States court at Detroit, where he was convicted of embezzling funds of the money order division of his postoffice. The court of appeals here has affirmed the sentence, which gives him fourteen months in the Leavenworth prison and a fine of $1,100. Higgins has been claiming that the money was taken by burglars who broke into his office.

Won Suit Against Railroad.

Lebanon, Ind., Feb. 8.—A jury returned a verdict of $16,000 in favor of Frank L. Ridge of Bloomington against the C. C. C. & St. L. Railway company. He sued for $50,000. Ridge lost an arm when a handle broke off a freight car while he was employed as a switchman for the Big Four.

A DANGEROUS MISTAKE.

Seymour Mothers Should Not Neglect Kidney Weakness in Children.

Most children have weak kidneys. The earliest warning is bed-wetting. Later comes backache, headache, languor.

'Tis a mistake to neglect these troubles.

To blame the child for its own distress.

Seek to cure the kidneys—Save the child from deadly kidney ills.

Doan's Kidney Pills cure sick kidneys.

Seymour parents recommend them. Mrs. James Breeden, 212 East St., Seymour, Ind., says: "Our little boy was delicate and his kidneys were badly disordered. The child had little control over the kidney secretions and this weakness was the source of much annoyance. Nothing brought relief until Doan's Kidney Pills were taken. They built up the boy's system and corrected the kidney weakness."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States.

Remember the name—Doan's—and take no other.

Two Sunsets Per Day.

There is one place in the world where the sun sets twice daily, and that is at Leek, in Staffordshire, England. The reason of this is that a jagged mountain is situated to the west of the town, and in the evening the sun sets behind it and darkness comes on. Then the first sunset occurs, the gas lamps are lit, and apparently night has set in. But it has not, for in the space of an hour or so the sun reappears again through the opening at the side of the mountain, and daylight again appears. Artificial lights are extinguished, and daylight again prevails until the sun descends below the opening and the second sunset occurs and night comes to stay.

The Poor Man.

A man sent to an insane asylum with a load of coal found on his arrival the gates were open, but not knowing where to deposit the fuel he left his horse and cart outside while he went to inquire. He walked about the grounds, but failed to see any one, so made his way back to the gates, but to his horror found they were closed. He tried in vain to open them and appealed to passersby to help him, as the horse and cart belonged to him. "Fancy," said one passerby to another, "that poor man thinks he is a carter." —London Ideas

OROZCO'S REBEL FORCES CAMPED

Within Sight of the Beleaguered Town of Juarez.

THE OPENING ENGAGEMENT

When the Insurrectos Come Down to Water Their Horses at the River, a Federal Force Sallies Out to Meet Them and There is Brisk Exchange of Compliments—Americans Watch Combatants and Jeer Cavalry.

El Paso, Tex., Feb. 8.—Orozco's rebel forces are camped within two miles of town, and the attack on Juarez has commenced. The first battle was fought late yesterday afternoon. It was a mere skirmish and not over 300 shots were fired. The rebels appeared at a point on the Mexican side of the river just three miles above Juarez. The federals went out to meet them as they were watering their mounts at the Rio Grande river. The rebels opened fire. As shots were exchanged the fighting bodies moving back down the river toward Juarez, the federals slowly falling back. Suddenly the rebels veered off into the hills and the federals, after a wait, returned to the barracks.

The rebels were soon down at the river again, and declared their intention to hold the position until they could get their field guns in from the mountains and reinforcements could arrive. Then they would attack Juarez, they said. They watered their horses and camped for the night where the fight occurred. The battle lasted but a short time, less than an hour, and only the federal infantry entered the fight. The federal cavalry remained behind the infantry and did not fire.

Americans Watched the Fight.

Americans watching the fight from the Texas side of the river jeered the federal cavalry. Several hundred Americans watched the skirmish from the Texas side, and bullets fell among them. The fight occurred directly opposite old Fort Bliss, which is on the streetcar line midway between El Paso and El Paso smelter. Reporters at the telephone in the flour mills nearby on the Texas side telephoned the progress of the fight.

Orozco commanded the insurrectos. He had marched from the point where he ceased fighting and retired Sunday evening, south of Juarez, around to the west of the town and to the north, where he hit the river and started down the stream. The number of federals wounded or dead in this battle is unknown, but one riderless horse dashed out of the foothills and three federals were seen to fall. Reporters were forbidden to cross the river.

ANOTHER OUTBREAK

Mexico Now Facing Revolution on the Southern Border.

Gamboa, Mexico, Feb. 8.—Revolutionary trouble of a serious character is breaking on the Mexican frontier bordering Guatemala, according to advices received at the general offices of the Pan-American railroad here. It is stated that Mexican political refugees who were living in Guatemala have formed an uprising in the vicinity of Tuxtla, Chico, and that the rebels have gathered in considerable force, taking possession of several villages. The commander of the Ninth military zone has ordered a force of troops to the scene of the new outbreak. The troops which were operating in the Tuxtla district of Oaxaca have been ordered to the Guatemala frontier.

HE WOULDN'T TELL

And Twenty Days Were Taken Off C. W. Morse's "Good Time."

Washington, Feb. 8.—It has just become known here that C. W. Morse, the New York banker now in the Atlanta prison, has added twenty days by his own actions to the sentence of fifteen years imposed on him by the federal court in New York. Officials of the prison found that Morse had some money on his person. The banker was called upon for explanations. He refused to say where he got the money, but told what officials say were conflicting stories. For this reason twenty days were taken off his good conduct record.

Fishing Was Good.

Viborg, Finland, Feb. 8.—Two vessels sent to the rescue of the fishermen whose temporary village built on the ice was swept out to sea Friday in a gale, found the floe stranded near the island of Seitskar. The fishermen, who numbered 253, were in no danger, and refused to be taken off.

Charge Not Sustained.

Austin, Tex., Feb. 8.—The jury in the case of Harlan McLeon, R. S. Newsum, C. H. Houston and R. W. Woods, charged with peonage, brought in a verdict of acquittal. The case has been on trial for the last three weeks, more than 200 witnesses being examined.

Four Europeans Decapitated.

Paris, Feb. 8.—A dispatch received here from Melilla states that four Europeans, traveling from Oran, Algeria, to Melilla, were decapitated by Rif tribesmen on Jan. 29.

LADY DECIES

DECIES AND BRIDE GO TO PALM BEACH

Later They Will Make Picturesque Nile Trip.

New York, Feb. 8.—After the ceremony in St. Bartholomew's church which yesterday afternoon united in marriage Miss Helen Vivien Gould, second daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Gould, and Major John Graham Hope Horsley-Beresford, D. S. O., fifth Baron Decies, there was a reception for a limited number at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. Gould at 857 Fifth avenue, and later Lord and Lady Decies left in a private car for Palm Beach, near which they will spend the first week of the honeymoon in a villa owned by a friend of the bride's father. Then a short stay will be made at the Jekyll Island club, it is understood, and Lord and Lady Decies will spend a few days at Georgian Court before sailing for Egypt on the Carmania on Feb. 18. They will spend two months on the Nile before going to London for the opening of the season that is to be made gay by the coronation festivities.

PLEASING NEWS

Fontanet Folk Glad to See "For Sale" on Powder Plant.

Fontanet, Ind., Feb. 8.—Placards were placed on the property of the Dupont Powder company here, advertising the property for sale. These notices are the answer to the question that has been in the minds of the people of this place for a number of years. It was here, four years ago, that the worst explosion in the history of the state occurred, when the mills of the Dupont company blew up, wrecking the town, destroying property for miles around and killing a number of people. The evident purpose of the company to vacate the property is pleasing news to the people.

Expresses Regret For Action.

Princeton, Ind., Feb. 8.—Charles Billingsly, the young railroad fireman shot in the breast by Everett Ross, another fireman, is still alive and his condition is favorable to recovery. Ross expresses deep regret for the shooting, but says he was driven to it by Billingsly entering his home life.

STRIFE STIRRED BY CORONATION

British Peers Contesting For Ancient Ceremonial Privileges.

COURT OF CLAIMS CROWDED.

Hereditary Squabbles Over Various Honorary Positions Being Thrashed Out Before King George Is Crowned. Usher of White Rod and Glove Bearer Subjected to Scrutiny.

Should King George of England decide to adopt ancient customs at his coming coronation there will be some quaint and medieval ceremonies on that occasion. A nobleman of the manor of Heydon, in Essex, is entitled to the honor of bearing a towel for the king when the monarch washes for the banquet. The holder of the manor of Addington, in Surrey, is charged with the duty of serving a mess of gerout or dillegroust to the sovereign before the immediate formalities of the banquet are begun.

The chief butler of England, a post of no mean honor in spite of the title, has, according to a well established claim, the right to call upon the lord mayor and twelve citizens of London for such aid as is necessary on the great day.

Competition Is Great.

There were two distinguished claimants for the post of chief butler at the coronation of King Edward in 1902. One was the Duke of Norfolk and the other Lord Mowbray and Stourton. In presenting their claims to the office these men quoted the records of previous coronations for several centuries and produced musty court documents of great antiquity, which were submitted in proof of the righteousness of their contentions. The Duke of Norfolk is the premier duke of England and the most prominent Roman Catholic. He is also very wealthy.

The court of claims, which has to do with the settlement of procedure at the coronation function, is now in session. It is guided in its decisions by established precedent. The court dates back to the reign of Richard II., 1377, when John Gaunt, duke of Lancaster, the lord high steward, kept his court in Whitehall. Beginning with the coronation of Henry VIII., commissioners were appointed to decide the questions, and these commissioners were later succeeded by the court of claims. The only record of the court is the coronation rolls, on which the claims are set down in some detail.

At the coronation of King Edward there were three claimants for the honor of carrying the great spurs. The court refused to allow the claims of any of the three, leaving it open for the present court to restore the right to a claimant. Carrying the spurs meant more in the days when English kings were fighters than it does now. The king has plenty of spurs, but they are without the glamour which comes with victories in the field.

Many Rival Claimants.

Most of the claims of right were allowed subject to the king's approval, but in some cases there were rival claimants. For instance, both the Duke of Newcastle and the Earl of Shrewsbury claimed the right of supplying the glove for the king's right hand and supporting his majesty's right arm while he is holding the scepter, and the first named claim was allowed.

Three claims were made to the office of hereditary standard bearer of Scotland, the petitioners being the Earl of Lauderdale, Henry Scrymgeour Wedderburn and the Rev. R. C. Wedderburn. Mr. Wedderburn's claim was allowed, and he was commanded to attend the coronation and did so. The Earl of Lauderdale, however, challenged the decision by bringing an action against the successful petitioner in the court of session, Scotland. He succeeded there, but on appeal to the house of lords the question was decided against him.

Another interesting claim was that of the Walker trustees to exercise the office of usher of the white rod, which was bequeathed by Sir Patrick Walker, a former holder, and held by trustees incorporated by act of parliament. They were allowed to be present by deputy to be approved by his majesty. A partial revival of an ancient privilege was seen in the decision by which the barons of the Cinque Ports were allowed to carry a canopy over the king should his majesty be pleased to have a canopy.

MACHINE MADE PLUM PUDDING

English Housewives Need Not Make Trouble Any More.

English housewives may grow up in ignorance of the secrets involved in compounding the greatest of all English dishes, plum pudding, but science with its ingenious mechanism will keep the pudding supply up to the demand.

United States Commercial Agent John M. Carson writes from England that "plum pudding, so dear to the English heart and so trying to the average stomach," promises to become of sufficient importance in the foreign trade of the kingdom to be specifically named in official reports.

EATING LESS.

[Believing Americans suffer from overeating, Mr. De Cunha of New Jersey would limit by statute the amount of food a person may swallow at a meal.]

I ordered up a sirloin rare,
With mushrooms on the side—
It was the finest form of fare
That ever I had tried—
When, lo, a man in brass and blue
Said, "You must cut that steak in two,
And just one-half of it must do
Or into jail you'll slide."

When on a sultry summer night
The youth and maiden fair
Would eat the ice cream in sight
Upon the bill of fare
The waiter says, with iron will,
"Not one more spoonful of vanilla!
Because, according to the bill,
You've had your legal share."

O diners at the annual feed
Of Gotham's Old Guard troop,
What torture's of stomachic need
You'd suffer in a group
If as you gulped the oysters raw
The toastman rose, held up a paw
And groaned, "It's specified by law
We finish with the soup!"

It seems a blow at pleasure, this,
Within the banquet hall,
And yet one economic bliss
We see in dinners small.
The beef trust's downfall will be viewed
If we offset the price of food
By making of ourselves a brood
Who do not eat at all.
—John O'Keefe in New York World.

CHIEF'S GRANDDAUGHTER NOW AN OFFICEHOLDER.

Watched Chippewa Relatives Fight Uncle Sam—Now Works For Him.

From a life of hardship and danger among the Indian tribes of South Dakota to the position of adjuster of claims in the office of the Indian affairs of the department of the interior is the unique life history of Mrs. M. L. Baldwin, granddaughter of a chief of the Chippewa Indians and relative of many of the famous Indian warriors of the west.

Until she was fourteen years of age Mrs. Baldwin slept only in an Indian tepee or in the open air. Many times when she was a girl she saw members of her family shot and scalped and one of her own brothers tortured. From the shelter of sand pits she, with other women and girls of her tribe, often watched the braves fight Indians of other tribes and soldiers of the United States.

Mrs. Baldwin's mother was a pure Chippewa Indian and her father a French Huguenot. Her grandfather formerly lived at Osseo, N. D. He also served as scout for many excursions for government troops. He was one of the most famous chiefs of the tribe. Her father later moved to Minneapolis, where he was made a judge advocate. He is now attorney in Washington for the Turtle Mountain band of the Chippewas. Mrs. Baldwin has held her present position for five years.

RICHEST SECTION IN COUNTRY

Virginia County Puts Out Boast of Amounting to Something.

"One county in Virginia—Accomac—is, I believe, the most prosperous county in the United States," declares William A. Anderson, former attorney general of the Old Dominion. "I don't mean, of course, to say that it is the richest, but I do assert that there is probably no other county in this country, or, for that matter, in the world, where every man in the county—and it is a county of 35,000 population—can within twenty-four hours raise $100 or more."

"Potatoes have made Accomac county. Last year the potato production of Accomac county was worth more than $2,000,000. Forty years ago the entire output of the county was not worth $500,000."

"Persons may talk about the opportunities presented in the western states, but I tell you that in the east and south there are hundreds of chances that are being overlooked. Do you know that in Virginia—in Suffolk—there is the second richest bank in the United States? I doubt if even the Chemical National of New York pays greater dividends than the Suffolk National of Suffolk, Va. The shares of the Suffolk today are worth nearly $3,000."

"The development of the peanut industry has been largely responsible for the prosperity of the country surrounding Suffolk."

BROOM MAKES ATHLETES.

Domestic Course at Girls' College Gives Them Fine Records.

Domestic training, especially sweeping, makes athletes. Domesticity and athletics are anything but foes. Lake Erie college at Painesville, O., furnishes proof of these statements.

The new official record of field athletics shows that Lake Erie holds five women's collegiate records, more than any other girls' institution in the country except Vassar, which has seven. Lake Erie is the only college holding records at which domesticity is a compulsory part of the course. At Lake Erie practical housework holds a place on the curriculum equal with literature, art and science. Every girl at Lake Erie must do thirty-five minutes of housework every day.

Attractive Dresses For All Occasions

Furnished by Pictorial Review

The Pictorial Review Bldg.

222-224-226 West 39th Street, New York City

There is something about the sailor costume which seems especially appropriate for school wear. While PICTORIAL REVIEW PATTERN No. 3753 is not exactly a sailor dress it has this general effect. The collar offers an opportunity for the use of contrasting material and the sleeve caps may be faced with bands of the same. These sleeve-caps are made in one with the side-front and back. A lining having two seam sleeves in full or three quarter length is provided, this being used for the foundation of the yoke and under sleeves facings. The attached six-gored skirt is made with a panel front and back, a style which will be seen a great deal this season. Serge, henrietta, broadcloth and cashmere are a few of the materials which would make up prettily in this model. Size 16 requires 3 yards of 34-inch material.

Young girls should get away from tailored effects for dressy occasions. Suits and plain dresses have their place in the wardrobe, but a little more elaborate frock is essential for certain affairs. PICTORIAL REVIEW PATTERN No. 3759, while pretty and simple, is still a change from the plain, conventional type of dress suitable for every-day wear. The sleeves are combined with the underbody and the outside portion of the waist is cut in an exceptionally effective outline. One of the features of this dress is the slightly raised waistline. The four piece skirt is closed at the left of the centre back. Serge, broadcloth, silk, cashmere, henrietta and similar fabrics would be effective made up in this design. When one of the cloths is selected the upper portion of the waist might be made of satin. Size 16 requires 3½ yards of 36 inch material for the outside and 1¼ yard of the same width for the underbody.

Any one of these patterns may be had in sizes 14, 16 and 18 years. These include cutting and construction guides and are 15 cents each.

THE FASHIONABLE SCARF

Furnished by Pictorial Review

The Pictorial Review Bldg.

222-224-226 West 39th Street, New York City

The scarf occupies a very important position in the outfit and when the purse can afford it the possession of several is to be desired. A black satin scarf lined with white satin is one of the smartest of them all, and has the advantage of suitability for any costume. Worn with a black hat the black and white effect gives distinction to a costume of a different color.

Now that Winter is here, of course fur will play an active part in the trimming of scarfs, and velvet will enter into their make-up. Indeed, quite a rich set may be made of black velvet with a trimming of gray fox like the one in the upper illustration which has the large barrel muff to match, entirely of fur.

The black satin scarf in the drawing, PICTORIAL REVIEW PATTERN No. 3738 shows how very simple they are and how one of that kind is worn. Sometimes they are wrapped more closely around the neck, or again carelessly wound around the arms. Satin charmeuse is a material often used, and white satin lining may extend even with the outside edges. One pretty finish, however, is made by having the white lining, wide enough to turn over on the outside and form a white hem an inch and a quarter wide. This feature is a detail of finish depending on the taste of the maker.

Three yards long and eighteen inches wide are the measurements of the black satin scarf. Some women who are not very tall prefer theirs two and a half yards long. This oblong shape has a satin lining of the same measurement, with the ends closely drawn up by several rows of shirring and finished with a heavy black silk tassel.

A delightfully shimmering and iridescent effect is produced by several layers of chiffon of different tones, together, such as gold, delicate blue, and perhaps a pea green. With a border of ermine or swansdown it is irresistible.

For the scarf intended for warmth, it is better to have an interlining of flannel or a similar fabric, being careful that whatever is used for this purpose is soft and pliant.

If one tires of the straight scarf it can be draped in the back very gracefully by shirring the edges together in the center for a short distance, just enough for it to hang to or a little below the waist. This is easily done with satin mesaline or liberty, which are very soft, and the fur edge should be carried along the shirring.

The scarf of velvet and fur, PICTORIAL REVIEW PATTERN No. 3733 is shaped quite differently, having a deep point in the back, the front sloping away into long pointed ends. The center section of velvet is inserted; it does not extend under the fur. Of course, any combination of fur, velvet or satin may be used, and the large barrel muff that accompanies it may have a wide strip of the contrasting material in the center if preferred. This scarf is also three yards long, but the quantity of fur cannot be given as skins vary in size.

Each of the two sets illustrated consists of a scarf and muff, and the price for each set, including cutting and construction guides is 15 cents. They are made in one size only.

SIMS EXPLAINS
 DYNAMITE PERIL

Communipaw Disaster Probably Due to Freezing.

EXPLOSIVE IS VERY PECULIAR.

All Sorts of Pranks Can Be Played With It Under Certain Conditions. Hudson River and Its Mud Acted as Cushion For Railway Tubes, but Air Did Not Prevent Broken Windows.

W. Scott Sims, one of the most distinguished experts in high explosives in the world, inventor of the Sims dynamite gun, the Sims wireless torpedo, the Sims-Edison dirigible torpedo and many other methods of putting high explosives to use, believes the recent $1,000,000 explosion at Communipaw, on the New Jersey shore opposite New York city, in which thirty-four were killed and hundreds injured, occurred because some of the dynamite on the pier was possibly frozen. In this condition it is most dangerous, he claims, explaining it by saying:

"Under ordinary conditions you can break a stick of dynamite in two or drop it on any surface from even a great height and nothing will happen. Fresh dynamite is as safe as safe can be—except," added the inventor, with a smile, "when it isn't. Once in awhile it will go off even under the best conditions from some little shock which ordinarily wouldn't budge it, but usually new dynamite at a temperature above freezing is absolutely safe to handle in every way. Why, I've carried it around in my pocket, and so have all of us who live with explosives. I have even seen men touch a match to the end of a silver of the stuff and light a cigar with it as it burns."

Freezing Causes Danger.

Mr. Sims explains, however, that freezing makes dynamite most unstable. The best grades, called gelatin, are composed of about 90 per cent nitroglycerin, 7 per cent gun cotton and 3 per cent camphor. The dynamite on the Communipaw dock, thought Mr. Sims, was probably of a more common grade, usually employed for blasting.

"My idea of the explosion is that the men who were shifting the boxes from the car to the lighter grew a bit careless perhaps, as those of us who handle explosives always seem to do. Several of the boxes of dynamite may have been frozen, and if that is so a good jar in sliding one of them down to the lighter might have set it off. If the men had already knocked off work for the noon hour it might have been some other thing—a boiler explosion on one of the boats perhaps, but with the frozen dynamite getting the force of the shock, small as it may have been."

"How about the other car of the explosive on the pier that didn't blow up?" he was asked. "Isn't that peculiar?"

"Not at all," was the inventor's answer. "It is entirely normal and natural. It is very possible that only a few sticks of the stuff that did explode were frozen. The other carload, however, was probably at a normal temperature, and therefore even the force of ten or fifteen tons of it going up at even a little distance away didn't disturb it."

"How about the force of a big explosion?" the inventor was asked. "Why did the blast break windows all over Manhattan and still not disturb any building foundations or even shake the tubes under the Hudson."

Explosive's Force Is Great.

"Let me explain," he answered. "The force of any explosion is in the direction of least resistance. An explosion on the surface of the ground therefore exerts its greatest force up into the air, not down. Most people think the force goes down because they can see the hole in the earth. What they cannot see is the far, far greater hole in the air."

"One can realize what this force is by remembering that the pressure of a seventy-five mile an hour wind is only about two pounds to the inch. After this air wave comes a practical vacuum, racing behind it through space. This is what gets the windows, and this vacuum explains why glass falls out instead of in. The windows can stand the first onslaught—in Manhattan it might have amounted to five pounds extra to the square inch—but what they cannot stand is the sudden backward snap as the low pressure follows the first force of the blow."

"The tunnels under the Hudson did not feel the explosion primarily because its chief force was exerted up and out into the surrounding air; secondarily, because water itself in great masses is a good cushion, and, thirdly, because the tubes must lie under some fifteen or twenty feet of mud and slime on the river bottom, which is the best sort of a cushion in itself."

Cat Raising His Own Food.

Bunk, a cat owned by Dorothy Dutcher, four years old, of Winsted, Conn., not content with sleeping with the chickens on the roost at night, is nesting with a setting hen on thirteen eggs.

Diamonds Prosperity's Barometer.

Diamonds may be prosperity's barometer. During the depression of 1908 New York imported them to the value of $16,750,000, and last year the imports were valued at $48,000,000.

The Factory System.

The factory system began with the introduction of machinery. It is thoroughly modern, there being nothing at all like it in antiquity or even in the middle ages. It began with the invention of the loom by Arkwright, about 1775, and was at first wholly confined to the cotton manufacture. As mechanical invention and discovery advanced and other industries were born the factory system broadened out along with them until finally it was the dominating feature of the community.—Exchange

LIQUOR BILL IS THE BIG TOPIC

Special Order In the Senate This Afternoon.

MUCH INTEREST IN MEASURE

When the Proctor Regulation Bill Was Called Up as the Special Order in the Senate This Afternoon at 3 O'Clock the Chamber of the Upper House Was Crowded—Congressional Reapportionment Claims Attention.

Indianapolis, Feb. 8.—In the upper house this afternoon at 3 o'clock the Proctor bill regulating the liquor traffic was taken up for third reading and passage. Much interest has been displayed in this bill and the senate chamber was crowded when the hour for final discussion arrived.

Governor Marshall has signed the Harlan bill, which provides for the acceptance of the gift of Dr. and Mrs. Robert W. Long for hospital purposes. The bill also provides for the sum of $25,000 annually to be used for the maintenance of the hospital, which is to be operated in connection with the Indiana university school of medicine in this city. It provides that the hospital shall be located in Military park, but this provision is not mandatory, as final selection of a site is to be made by a commission headed by Dr. Long. The senate passed the McCarty bill providing for medical inspection in the schools.

Indiana's Centennial Building.

A bill providing that Indiana shall celebrate in 1916 the centennial of her admission into the Union by the dedication of a state educational building, to be erected on ground near the state house to be selected by a special commission, was passed.

The bill was drafted along lines indicated by Governor Marshall, who recommended in his message that the centennial be celebrated by the erection of a substantial state building instead of appropriating money for centennial ceremonies. It is the plan to house the state library and the state museum in the proposed new building.

Kimmel's bill permitting the payment of city taxes at the office of city treasurer in cities that are not county seats was passed without a dissenting vote.

Kistler's bill amending the present state bank examiners' law so as to provide for additional examiners and also making the examiners subject to removal at any time without cause passed by a straight party vote.

Among other bills passed in the senate was the bill making the Technical Institute a part of the public school system of Indianapolis and enabling the city to levy a tax for its support. Senator Lamont's measure against the practice of hypnotism and mesmerism in public places was also passed.

The day in the house was given over to consideration of the general appropriation bill.

To Lose Congressional District.

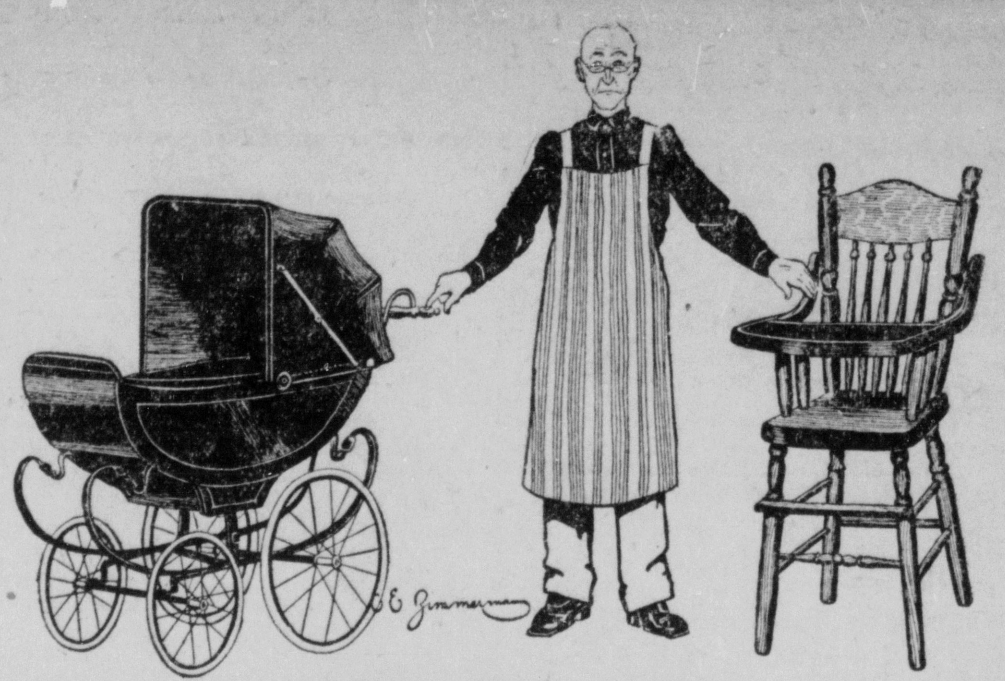

The reapportionment of the state into twelve congressional districts, instead of thirteen, as at present, was the subject of the study of the congressional apportionment committee of the senate. The result was that the committee approved a map, subject to changes suggested by Governor Marshall and other Democrats who will be consulted.

Senator W. B. Carleton of Evansville, chairman of the committee, says first attention was put on the map for twelve districts, as Congressman Boehne believed congress would finally provide for twelve congressmen from Indiana, instead of thirteen. It was estimated by the committee that each of the twelve districts should be so apportioned that it would contain about 225,000 inhabitants.

According to the plan, Marion county, which now comprises the Seventh district, will be divided, the part containing Indianapolis and the townships in the east half comprising one district and the townships of Washington, Pike, Wayne, Decatur and Perry comprising a part of another district. These west townships are planned as a part of a district to be composed of Morgan, Hendricks, Putnam, Boone, Hamilton, Tipton, Howard and Clinton.

If the present plan is adopted, the First district will be the same as at present, with Dubois and Perry counties added. Other changes proposed are as follows: The Second district would be the same as at present, with Brown county added. The Third district would be composed of Crawford, Harrison, Floyd, Clark, Washington, Orange, Scott, Jefferson, Jackson, Jennings, Bartholomew and Decatur counties. The Fifth district would lose Putnam, Hendricks and Morgan counties. Another district would be composed of Switzerland, Ohio, Dearborn, Ripley, Franklin, Union, Wayne, Fayette, Henry, Rush, Shelby and Johnson counties. Hancock, Madison, Delaware, Randolph, Blackford, Jay and Adams would comprise another district. A district group would be Wells, Huntington, Grant, Wabash, Miami, Cass, Carroll and Pulaski counties.

What is now known as the Twelfth district would be the same as at present, with Kosciusko county added. Elkhart, St. Joseph, Laporte, Starke, Marshall and Fulton counties would form a district. The Tenth district would be the same as at present, except Laporte county would be lost.

A Fine Stream or water.

A Philadelphia lawyer was hit with the desire to move to the country, and after traveling through Delaware county he struck a three acre farm not so many miles from Swarthmore. He remembered the advertisement, recalled all the conveniences which the place had and was slightly disappointed.

"If I recall," he said to the owner who had it for rent, "you advertise a fine stream of water on the place. I don't see it."

"Well, work that pump handle a bit and you'll see as fine a stream as ever was pumped up. You're not expecting a reproduction of Niagara falls, are you, for $40 a month?"—Philadelphia Times.

Dogfish Do Not Feed on Lobsters.

It has long been accepted in Nova Scotia that the dogfish fed to a considerable extent upon the lobster, but an investigation made not long since by scientific men at the rendering works at Clark's harbor showed conclusively that such is not the case. Of the millions of dogfish put through the crusher one only showed the presence of lobster, and that was a small piece.

The dogfish swarm ordinarily near the surface and eat nothing but what they first snap into morsels; therefore it is difficult to imagine how they could do this with the lobster in full armor. Although the dogfish is a great pest and destroys thousands of dollars' worth of fish, there were no indications that they feed to any extent on lobsters.

On the other hand, the investigation showed that the skate, which is only a ground fish, was very destructive of this particular kind of shellfish—Consular Report.

Importance of Camphor.

The agricultural department has been making numerous experiments in the growth of camphor trees and has finally announced that these oriental trees can be successfully grown in Florida, California and other southern states.

The importance of this will not be appreciated until it is understood that camphor is one of the important ingredients of smokeless powder and that Japan has practically a monopoly on all the camphor used in the world.

If the island empire were to be opposed to the whole world in war for any length of time the rest of the world would soon be using black powder.

Drawing With Ruling Pen.

The easiest way to draw a wavy line with a ruling pen is to use the edge of a coarse toothed comb in which the teeth are fairly stiff. The pen should be drawn fairly rapidly to make a smooth undulation in the line.

Paxtine destroys germs that cause disease, decay and odors—that is why it is the best mouth wash and gargle, and why it purifies the breath, cleanses and preserves the teeth better than ordinary dentifrices, and in sponge bathing it completely eradicates perspiration and other disagreeable body odors. Every dainty woman appreciates this and its many other toilet and hygienic uses.

Paxtine is splendid for sore throat, inflamed eyes and to purify mouth and breath after smoking. You can get Paxtine Toilet Antiseptic at any drug store, price 25c and 50c, or by mail postpaid from The Paxtine Toilet Co., Boston, Mass., who will send you a free sample if you would like to try it before buying.

MINERS RESENT IT

John Mitchell's Pennsylvania Friends
Hot Under the Collar.

Scranton, Pa., Feb. 7.—There is a growing storm among the mine workers of the anthracite field over the action of the Columbus convention in requiring John Mitchell to give up the union or his position with the National Civic Federation. There is no leader as strong with the masses in this section as John Mitchell.

A printed statement has been made here that an effort has begun among the miners to wipe out the affront to Mitchell by having the amendment aimed at him reconsidered. One miners' local has already condemned the action taken at Columbus. So has the streetcar men's union in Scranton. The latter organization say they have as much faith in Mitchell as a member of the federation as they had in him when president of the miners.

CATARRH A SYSTEMIC BLOOD DISEASE

Catarrh is not merely an affection of the mucous membranes; it is a deep-seated blood disease in which the entire circulation and greater part of the system are involved. It is more commonly manifested in the head, nose and throat, because of the sensitive nature of these membranes, and also because they are more easily reached by irritating influences from the outside. The symptoms of Catarrh, such as a tight feeling in the head, nose stopped up, throat clogged and dry, hacking cough, etc., show that the tiny blood vessels of the mucous membranes are badly congested and inflamed from the impurities in the circulation. To cure Catarrh permanently the blood must be purified and the system cleansed of all unhealthy matter. Nothing equals S. S. S. for this purpose. It attacks the disease at its head, goes down to the bottom of the trouble and makes a complete and lasting cure by PURIFYING the blood. Then the inflamed membranes begin to heal, the head is cleared, breathing becomes natural and easy, the throat is no longer clogged, and every unpleasant symptom of the disease disappears. S. S. S. is the greatest of all blood purifiers, and for this reason is the most certain cure for Catarrh. Book on Catarrh and medical advice free to all who write.

Auto Parties Make the Run From El Paso.

NOT MUCH OF A SPECTACLE

Sniping at Each Other From Behind Hills, the Federal Force Protecting Juarez and the Insurrectos Kept Up an All-Day Fire With the Net Result of Two Killed on Each Side and Seven Wounded.

El Paso, Tex., Feb. 6.—Colonel Robago's command marched into Juarez last night at 10 o'clock, after facing the rebels all day outside the city. He brought 270 fighting men with him and eleven wounded, including one woman. He left two dead on the field and the hospital train brought in a wounded woman.

Since 9 o'clock Saturday night there had been fighting in progress, but none of it was bloody or spirited.

The federal forces were under command of Colonel Robago. The insurgents number 800, with 300 or more coming up from the south. The exact number of federals is not known.

For two hours Sunday afternoon our correspondent was in the rebel lines, about twelve miles out of Juarez. During that time not over 200 shots were fired. Pacual Orozco, commander of the Insurrectos, was not seen himself. Captain F. J. Casasantes was in command of the eastern detachment of Insurrectos. The federals had a Gatling gun with them. They fired four times on the red cross flag carried by the doctors in the Insurrecto ranks. As a result the Insurrecto wounded, unable to crawl back for attention, were left on the field until darkness came. At 4:30 the rebels had lost two killed and three wounded in the all-day fight.

Battle Opened at Daylight.

The battle did not open until daylight, although the federals, coming to reinforce Juarez from Casas Grandes, ran into a torn-up track of the Mexico Northwestern at 9 o'clock Saturday night. The Insurrectos had been expecting reinforcements from the south, and did not attack the train except to exchange a few shots. They waited until morning to ascertain if it was a train of rebels or federals. Finding it was federals, the Insurrectos attacked, but found that the federals during the night had dug intrenchments around the train and had set up a Gatling gun. Then followed the all-day fight from behind hills. The federals are fighting under the belief that they are to be massacred if taken prisoners, as their officers tell them. They have seventeen cars, three of them passenger coaches, and the others box cars.

Two precautions in Juarez have not been relaxed. The soldiers are on the tops of the buildings and they cut holes in the walls of the old cathedral so that they can shoot from inside if the rebels drive them from the roofs, where they are now intrenched behind sandbags.

Flags of Every Color.

Juarez looks like a congress of nations. Flags of every color are floating from all the housetops and doors, showing they belong to foreign residents. The Mexican national emblem floats from every official building, proudly and defiantly. Usually it does not fly except on the custom house.

More than a hundred persons went from El Paso in autos Sunday to the near vicinity of the fighting. Auto drivers made the round trip in four hours, with an hour at the battlefield, and harvested money at $25 to $50 a load.

The rebels are armed with all manner of guns, but the majority carry Mausers and many of them carry bayonets and wear Mexican army cartridge belts, showing that they are either deserters from the federals or that they have captured these things from the federal soldiers.

Not So Bad as First Reported.

Manila, Feb. 6.—Many of those who fled to escape the eruption of Mount Taal are now returning to their villages. It is reported that some of them found their villages undamaged. These villages were included in the reports of those who suffered from the eruption, and it is thought that the fact that they did not suffer will reduce the estimates of the number killed.

ENDS NOTED CASE

Kentucky Youth Accused of Murdering Father-in-Law Acquitted by Jury.

Nicholasville, Ky., Feb. 6.—Grover Fish, who was charged with the murder of his father-in-law, Samuel Welsh, a wealthy banker of Madison county, two years ago, has been declared not guilty by a jury.

The jury found that Fish was insane and was not responsible when the killing occurred. The case has been a noted one. Fish, who is twenty-two years of age, on the witness stand swore that he killed Welsh because he had been intimate with his (Fish's) mother, and that Welsh had prevailed on his daughter to leave Fish.

Georgia Senator Seriously
Ill at the National Capital.

Washington, Feb. 6.—The condition of Senator Terrell of Georgia is slightly improved. He is a patient at the George Washington university hospital, where he was taken following a partial paralysis. He is in a very serious condition, and it is not thought that he will be able to return to his seat in the senate in the present session of congress.

A CHICAGO HOLD-UP IN WILD-WEST STYLE

Robbers Compel Cashier to Give Up Thousands.

Chicago, Feb. 6.—Four armed men held up and robbed Rector's restaurant at 10 o'clock Sunday morning. The restaurant is in the heart of the business section. The robbers get between $3,500 and $4,000, and had no trouble in making their escape.

Cashier J. P. Adams, a waiter and a scrub woman were the only persons in the restaurant. Four men entered and went directly to the cashier's desk. There they drew revolvers and "hands up" was ordered.

The waiter and the woman were forced to stand with their faces to a wall with their hands above their heads, while Adams was ordered to open the safe and hand out its contents.

He opened the money box of the safe and handed over to the desperadoes the receipts of Saturday afternoon and evening, estimated at between $3,500 and $4,000. Adams was then ordered to join his companions standing face to the wall, and the four men backed out of the place and easily made their escape. The men were not masked and made no effort to conceal their identity.

FAULTY CONNECTION

Caused Serious Explosion of Gas in a
Tennessee Girls' School.

Nashville, Tenn., Feb. 6.—Explosion of gas at Roscobel college, a school for young ladies, wrecked part of the building, threw the students into a panic and caused many to flee in their nightgowns.

One young lady was blown twenty feet down the corridor. She and another were burned, but will recover. Every glass in the building was blown to bits.

The electricity used in the building was cut off during an electrical storm. The gas, which had not been used for some time, was turned on, and the explosion resulted from a faulty connection.

EVIDENCES LACKING

Grand Jury Found No Bill Against Man Accused of Burning Girl.

Bloomington, Ind., Feb. 6.—After a searching investigation the Monroe county grand jury returned an ignominious in the case of the state against Litana Skelton of Stinesville, charged with setting fire to and burning to death his fiancée, Miss Lillian Lifford of Ellettsville. Skelton was released from jail after being a prisoner in the county jail two weeks. In a written report signed by Foreman Howa, it was stated that there was not sufficient evidence to warrant the return of a true bill against the defendant.

Revolt in Dutch East Indies.

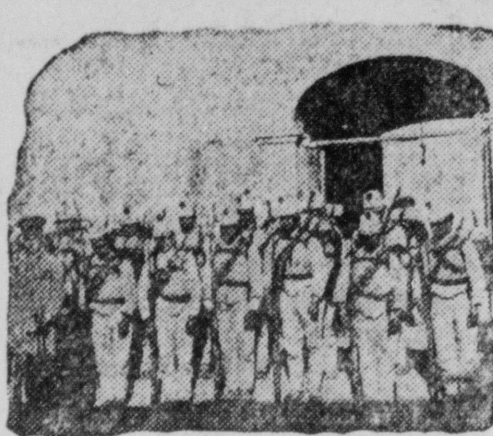

Batavia, Java, Dutch East Indies, Feb. 6.—There has been a serious outbreak among the Chinese on the island of Billiton. The capitol, Tanjung Pandan, was looted and burned, and the chief administrator and other officials murdered.

Two Boys and a Gun.

Glasgow, Ky., Feb. 6.—Elmer Edwards, aged thirteen years, shot and killed his brother Andrew at their home near Sulphur Wells. Elmer claims he was examining the gun, when it was accidentally discharged.

SPECIAL SESSION OF CONGRESS IN SIGHT

President Will Insist On Ratification of Canadian Post.

Washington, Feb. 6.—By the latter part of the week the reciprocity agreement will have passed the house of representatives and be transmitted to the senate for consideration. The indications are that the pact will fail of passing in the senate, though the administration is counting on public sentiment to force favorable action by that body before adjournment.

Judging from the volume of mail received here since Mr. Taft forwarded his special message to congress on the subject, the Canadian agreement meets with popular approval. Furthermore, the great majority of the members of the house of representatives is favorable to it. In addition it is known that a majority of the senators would vote for it if given opportunity to do so. The opposition in the senate, however, is determined that the agreement shall not come to a vote at this session. The opposition to the agreement in the senate is largely sectional, coming in the main from senators representing the agricultural states of the northwest, the intermountain states, Pacific coast states, the New England states, and from Democrats who are always protectionists when tariff measures are up for consideration.

There have been reports from time to time during the past week that unless the Canadian agreement is ratified before adjournment, Mr. Taft will call a special session of congress. Administration leaders say that the president has not abandoned hope that the pact will be enacted into law before March 4, and is giving no thought to the idea of a special session at present. What he will decide to do in the event of the failure of the agreement at this session is a question to be determined later.

Will File Numerous Suits.

Frankfort, Ky., Feb. 6.—Auditor James reports that fully 1,200 corporations have failed to report to pay the annual license tax of 30 cents on each $1,000 of capital stock. The result will be that numerous suits will be filed by auditor's agents, who will add a penalty of 10 per cent, prescribed by statute. The report should have been filed Feb. 1.

Death of General Cronje.

Klerksdorp, Transvaal, Feb. 6.—General Piet A. Cronje, the noted Boer general, is dead. General Cronje commanded the western army of the South African republics in the Boer war.

TERSE TELEGRAMS

Eighty rebels and thirty federals were killed in the battle of LaMojia, Mexico.

The Indiana legislature has approved a resolution indorsing the nomination of United States senators by direct primary.

Sani-Ed Dowleh, persian minister of finance, was assassinated at Teheran by two Armenians, who also killed two policemen in making their escape.

James Cantwell, a young man employed by a Paterson, N. J., undertaker, is dead from drinking embalming fluid, mistaking the same for whisky.

Iowa, Illinois, upper Missouri, Wisconsin and the spring wheat states experienced a heavy fall of snow which drifted badly, impeding railway traffic.

Lighting struck the dome of the Missouri capitol at Jefferson City, and fire which followed destroyed the edifice, together with many valuable records.

New Orleans has thrown up the sponge and concedes the Panama exposition to San Francisco. It is said that New Orleans people spent $100,000 in their effort to land the exposition.

One hundred carloads of heavy lubricating oil stored in an Erie Railroad company's warehouse on the Weehawken riverside, burned, making a smoky spectacle for New York, at a loss of $250,000.

Christopher Kenny, a lumber surveyor of Lancaster, N. H., was shot and killed in a room in the Moosilauke hotel at Warren, N. H., by J. Walter Shields of West Philadelphia, Pa., following a drinking bout.

JOHN D. WORKS

The New United States
Senator from California.

San Francisco, Feb. 7.—John D. Works, the new United States senator from California, is an organization Republican and will support the policies of the president. He is very wealthy.

ACCESSION OATH HAS BEEN MUCH MODIFIED

Clause Objectionable to Church Stricken Out.

London, Feb. 7.—At the opening of parliament King George recited in the house of lords the accession declaration, which is always made on the occasion of a new sovereign's first meeting with parliament. This declaration was amended last year because of the objections of Roman Catholics to the denunciation of certain of the functions of that church as idolatrous, and now is as follows: "I do solemnly and sincerely, in the presence of God, profess, testify and declare that I am a faithful Protestant and I will, according to the true intent of the enactments which secure the Protestant succession to the throne of my realm, uphold and maintain the said enactments to the best of my powers accordingly."

The king delivered the words in a ringing voice which was in contrast conspicuously to the subdued, perfunctory tones used by the late King Edward when the latter had to recite the harsher terms of the old declaration.

Adelina Patti In 1852.

Little Adelina Patti sang Jenny Lind's "Echo Song" and "Ah, Non Giungo!"

She is only nine years old, but her cultivation is quite remarkable, and her voice, although pleasantly child-like in tone, is sweet and easily fills the great hall. It is a pity she is to sing in a theater. She will be stung by the frenzied desire of applause, which will do much to ruin her as an artist.

I never see a prodigy of this kind who is really interesting as little Patti is without remembering the young Mozart, and that whom the gods love die young or grow old, faded and forgotten, which is worse.—From a New York Letter, May 22, 1852.

A Problem in Theology.

Mr. Frank Fox in his book, "Australia," describes the religion of the aborigines as "a species of devil worship." "The good spirits—of the existence of whom they had some vague notions—did not, in their opinion, call for much attention, since, being good, they would do nobody any harm. But the evil spirits, of whom there were many terrifying varieties, had to be conciliated."

OWES HER HEALTH

To Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Scottville, Mich.—"I want to tell you how much good Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and Sanative Wash have done me. I live on a farm and have worked very hard. I am forty-five years old, and am the mother of thirteen children. Many people think it strange that I am not broken down with hard work and the care of my family, but I tell them of my good friend, your Vegetable Compound, and that there will be no backache and bearing down pains for them if they will take it as I have. I am scarcely ever without it in the house.

"I will say also that I think there is no better medicine to be found for young girls to build them up and make them strong and well. My eldest daughter has taken Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound for painful periods and irregularity, and it has always helped her.

"I am always ready and willing to speak a good word for the Lydia E. Pinkham's Remedies. I tell everyone I meet that I owe my health and happiness to these wonderful medicines."—Mrs. J. G. JOHNSON, Scottville, Mich., R.F.D. 3.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, made from native roots and herbs, contains no narcotics or harmful drugs, and to-day holds the record for the largest number of actual cures of female diseases.

The Famous Rayo

Does Not Strain the Eyes

Don't use a small, concentrated light over one shoulder. It puts an unequal strain on your eyes. Use a diffused, soft, mellow light that cannot flicker, that equalizes the work of the eyes, such as the Rayo Lamp gives, and avoid eye strain.

The Rayo is designed to give the best light, and it does.

It has a strong, durable shade-holder that is held firm and true. A new burner gives added strength. Made of solid brass and finished in nickel. Easy to keep polished. The Rayo is low priced, but no other lamp gives a better light at any price.

HE HAD JUAREZ IN HIS GRASP

And Then He Let It Go, Did Gen. Orozco.

STARVED OUT OF HIS POSITION

At Least That Is the Explanation Given by the Revolutionary Junta at El Paso For the Inexplicable Action of Rebel Forces Withdrawing Just as They Had the Beleaguered City in Their Possession.

El Paso, Tex., Feb. 7.—From all directions troops of both armies are concentrating, but where is Pascual Orozco, and why did he withdraw and let Robago come into Juarez?

Orozco, the leader of the rebels, has gone and Juarez has been reinforced. The members of the revolutionary junta in El Paso explain that Orozco had no food nor water for men or horses and had to quit the fight for this reason. He is said to be west of Juarez. Reinforcements are reported as coming from the south and east for the rebel army. Also reinforcements are reported as being enroute from Chihuahua for the Juarez garrison.

Orozco had Juarez in his grasp. He could have taken it easily. He was between Juarez and Colonel Robago and his reinforcements from Casas Grandes. He had them hemmed up in a valley with his men on the hillsides surrounding, where they could shoot at will. That he had the best of the fight was demonstrated by the number of killed and wounded in the engagement Sunday. The federals lost one dead and twenty-six wounded, including five women camp followers (wives of soldiers), while Orozco lost none killed and three wounded. He was not short of ammunition, for no man had less than one full belt of cartridges, and many had two or three.

News comes of the capture by the insurgents of San Ignacio, thirty-five miles down the river. This is the second time it has been taken by the rebels. General Luis Terrazas, the land and cattle king of Chihuahua, and his son, Alberto Terrazas, who until last week was governor of that state, have gone to Mexico City in a private car.

A work train sent out from Chihuahua has, it is learned, repaired the bridges wrecked and burned between Gallego and Montezuma. There are no destroyed bridges below Gallego. In all twenty-four bridges were destroyed between Juarez and Chihuahua, and five of these have been repaired. Juarez has absolutely no train or wire connection with the rest of Mexico.

Last Friday a number of bandits entered the small town of Rosales, about twenty-five miles south of Chihuahua, and helped themselves to clothing, groceries and bottled goods. Then they captured the Jefe Politico, Don Jose Angel Rebles, and compelled him to accompany them. A few hours later the bandoleros robbed the station at Ortiz of $1,000 and disappeared.

The revolution has appeared in Sinaloa. A band of revolutionists appearing at Tamazula near the line of Sinaloa, secured $800 by threatening merchants, on Sunday, and the insurgents, numbering eighty, are said to be headed for Culiacan. Governor Redo has sent 100 men out to meet them.

STRANGE ATTACK

Lafayette Fireman and His Wife Cruelly Beaten by an Unknown.

Lafayette, Ind., Feb. 7.—James Donovan, a member of the city fire department, was a victim of a mysterious assault at his home in North Sixth street. His wife was also attacked. The assailant entered their house through the back door, and without giving any explanation pounced on Donovan and his wife and beat them cruelly. Both are in a hospital and Donovan's condition is serious. He was beaten with a club until he lay unconscious on the floor. Mrs. Donovan was attacked when she attempted to defend her husband. The assailant had a knife in one hand and used it on Mrs. Donovan.

The police are conducting an investigation, but there is no clue and no motive, as far as the police are able to learn.

Two Boys and a Gun.

Crown Point, Ind., Feb. 7.—While playing Indian on their father's farm, nine miles south of here, Wilbur Swanson, twelve years old, unintentionally shot and killed his brother Paul, thirteen years old. The father, who is a wealthy farmer, had been hunting, and upon his return he placed the rifle in the barn. The boys secured possession of it and did not know it was loaded.

Held For Manslaughter.

Brookville, Ind., Feb. 7.—William Shields, wanted here on the charge of manslaughter, has been arrested at Newcastle. Shields quarreled with his father and is said to have struck him over the head with a coal oil lamp, the burns causing death.

Hanged Himself in Stable.

Fort Wayne, Ind., Feb. 7.—Frank Tyler, aged thirty, a teamster, unmarried, hanged himself in a stall of the stable. No motive is known.

JAY GOULD

Whose Coming Marriage Was Announced Today.

GOES SISTER ONE BETTER

Jay Gould to Marry Into Royal Family Instead of Mere Nobility.

New York, Feb. 7.—At the wedding reception of Miss Vivien Gould and Baron Decies this afternoon, the engagement of Jay Gould, youngest son of George Gould, and Miss Anna Douglas Graham of 15 West Sixty-seventh street, was announced. The wedding will take place in June.

By marrying Miss Graham Jay Gould goes his sister one better and marries into a royal family instead of mere nobility. The royal family in question is not now a reigning family. It is the royal family of Hawaii. Mrs. Vos, Miss Graham's mother, was before she married Douglas Graham, the Princess Kaiulani of Hawaii.

BOLD WORK OF BLACK HAND ORGANIZATION

Two Pennsylvanians Victims of Murderous Attack.

Punkstunaway, Pa., Feb. 7.—At Brockwayville supposed black handers broke into the home of Charles Volsted, a well-to-do baker, tied him to the posts of his bed, and after vainly searching for money, kindled a fire in the bakery directly under the room in which Volsted was bound. It was not until the flames had burned through the flooring and had communicated to the bed that Volsted was able to free himself.

Dragging himself to the roof of the porch outside his window, by which the marauders had gained admittance, he collapsed just as volunteer fire fighters arrived. He was severely burned about the arms and body.

Half an hour after this Samuel Manning, agent for a brewing company, was attacked near a spot where he had been ordered to leave a sum of money, and knifed in such a manner that twenty-four stitches were required to close his wounds. He was left for dead in the roadway and was found unconscious by some men who were returning home after the fire at Volsted's. Manning is in a serious condition and is likely to die.

Volsted had received four black hand letters, each demanding that he place $500 in a signified spot, the penalty for failure being the burning of his place and the killing of his wife and child and himself. In each letter he was given three days' grace. The last letter was received last Friday, and it was then that he sent his wife and child away, but resolved to stay himself and defend his property.

Manning received letters demanding he give up $250. Manning says that two Italians assaulted him, first hitting him over the head with a club and then using their knives. A detachment of state constabulary has been ordered out to scour the surrounding country and try to round up the would-be assassins.

Killed Wife's Former Sweetheart.

Princeton, Ind., Feb. 7.—Charles Billingsly, aged twenty-four, was shot and mortally wounded by Ernest Ross, aged twenty-three. Ross claims that Billingsly had been paying attention to Mrs. Ross, the two having been sweethearts before her marriage.

The Reports Unfounded.

Indianapolis, Feb. 7.—Reports to the effect that James Whitcomb Riley, the Hoosier poet, is seriously ill, have no foundation in fact, as Mr. Riley's condition is better now than it has been at any time since he had a paralytic stroke three months ago.

Another Postoffice Robbed.

Washington, Ind., Feb. 7.—The Washington postoffice was entered by robbers who climbed over the partition from the corridor and took $20.50 in wrapped silver and $148.58 in stamps.

Police Chief in Bad.

Muncie, Ind., Feb. 7.—The jury in the case of Otto Williamson, chief of police, charged with operating a gambling room, returned a verdict of guilty and assessed a fine of $10 and costs.

IT WILL BE A CLOSE SHAVE

Popular Election of Senators In the Balance.

IT HINGES ON VOTES OF A FEW

Chance of Securing Necessary Two-Thirds Vote in the Senate Turns on the Votes of Four or Five Republican Senators Whose Attitude Is in Doubt—Lorimer Case Expected to Come to a Vote This Week.

Washington, Feb. 6.—Republican leaders are hopeful that before the end of another legislative week in the senate that the resolution proposing an amendment to the constitution for popular election of senators and the Lorimer case will both have been disposed of. If Senator Lorimer does not end the matter by resigning it is likely the case will be brought to a vote.

The resolution for popular election of senators is now the unfinished business. Senators Lodge and Root are to speak at length on the matter. Senator Heyburn will oppose it and may attempt to prevent a vote by talking against time, but the other debates on the resolution will be brief, it is believed. The friends of the resolution are not very hopeful of securing the necessary two-thirds vote of the senate. They admit that there is a prospect that Senator Sutherland's amendment retaining federal control over the popular election at which senators are to be chosen will be added to the resolution. In that contingency several southern Democratic senators would refuse to support the measure, but even omitting the contingency of the adoption of the Sutherland amendment, the chance of securing two-thirds is slim. The matter will turn upon the votes of four or five Republican senators whose attitude is in doubt but who are supposed to be opposed to the popular election of senators.

FILLED VACANCIES

County Officials Were Ousted Because Their Elections Were Tainted.

Frankfort, Ky., Feb. 6.—Governor Wilson has appointed John W. Ford, judge to Pike county, to fill the vacancy created by the decision of the court of appeals, in which the Republican county officials of Pike county were ousted because of the use of money at the election in 1909. Ford was elected judge of Pike county in the 1909 election, and his appointment makes it certain that all of the old county officials will be reappointed, as he has it in his power to appoint them. The record in the case showed that $15,000 had been spent in this election, and the court of appeals was severe in comments on the election.

SAVED BY HAT

Otherwise Kentucky Auditor Might Have Had a Fractured Skull.

Frankfort, Ky., Feb. 6.—By wearing a derby hat State Auditor Frank P. James escaped serious injury while riding from Lawrenceburg to Harrodsburg on the Southern railway.

James was standing at the water cooler when the train stopped so suddenly that he was thrown with great force against the side of the coach.

The rim of the hat protected his face to a degree, but notwithstanding his face was bruised badly, and if he had not been wearing a stiff hat his skull would have been fractured.

LOOK OUT FOR THEM

How Swindlers Worked the Housewives of Grammer.

Columbus, Ind., Feb. 6.—When Wiley Beck, owner of a grain elevator at Grammer, sold 10 cents' worth of cement to two strangers a few days ago he felt that he had made a fair profit on the deal, but when he learned later that his wife had paid 25 cents for a very small quantity of it under the name of "World-Famed and Incomparable Metal Polish," he realized that he had been "stung." The strangers peddled the cement throughout the town as metal polish, swindling almost every woman in the place.

Waived Preliminary Hearing.

Evansville, Ind., Feb. 6.—Charles Messel, who shot and killed his sister Fern because she implicated him along with her father in an alleged unnatural crime, pleaded not guilty and waived preliminary hearing in the city court.

Caught at the Crossing.

Lafayette, Ind., Feb. 6.—Robert Howell, a wealthy Tippecanoe county farmer, while driving to his home, three miles east of Otterbein, was struck by a passenger train on the Big Four railroad and instantly killed.

Paul Singer's Funeral.

Berlin, Feb. 6.—About 150,000 persons followed the body of Paul Singer, the noted Socialist, to the grave. The lookers-on numbered probably not fewer than 500,000.

Miss Fletcher Returns Home.

Linden, Mich., Feb. 6.—Miss Sheldon Fletcher, the missing school teacher of Anderson, Ind., is at her home here, where she expects to enjoy a long rest.

POWDER FACTORY IN MICHIGAN LETS GO

Ten Men Blown to Pieces In Fearful Explosion.

Ishpeming, Mich., Feb. 7.—Nine men, including the foreman, were killed outright, one is missing, thought to have been blown to pieces, and another injured as the result of an explosion at the Pluto Powder company's factory about five miles south of Ishpeming, late yesterday afternoon. The nine known dead were all at work in the gelatin building when the explosion, the cause of which the officials of the company declare to be a mystery, occurred. The company employs about thirty-five men and the loss of life would have been greater had not a large batch of dynamite been removed from the gelatin building an hour before the explosion occurred.

Only portions of the men's bodies have been found.

Fifty Years Ago Today.

Feb. 8.

A constitution of the provisional government of the Confederate States of America was adopted at Montgomery. This document generally resembled the constitution of the United States, but prohibited the importation of African negroes as slaves. The preamble to the constitution began, "We, the deputies of the sovereign and independent states of —, ordain and establish this constitution."

The Sicilian Vespers.

The Sicilian Vespers is the term given to the massacre of the French in Sicily, March 30, 1282. On Easter Monday conspirators assembled at Palermo, and while the French were engaged in festivities a Sicilian bride passed by with her train. A Frenchman used her rudely, and a young Sicilian stabbed him on the spot. The populace ran through the city crying out, "Let the French die!" and without distinction of rank, age or sex slaughtered all the Frenchmen they could find. About 8,000 were massacred. Not even the churches were allowed to become a sanctuary for them. The massacre was general throughout the island.—New York American.

SENATOR PROCTOR

Author of Bill For New Liquor
Legislation in Hoosier State.PRESIDENT DAVILA
READY TO GET OUTHe Declares His Willingness to Abdicate.

New Orleans, Feb. 8.—The news received by Consul General Ulloa is that President Davila not only asked for American intervention in Honduras, but declared his willingness to abdicate. The only conditions to abdication is that a neutral man, one not connected with either faction, be selected.

From Central Americans here it was learned that two of the most likely candidates for the presidency in case of Davila's proposition being accepted are General Lopez Gueitez and Daniel Fortin, both of Tegucigalpa. The latter is a prominent merchant at the Honduran capital.

Dispatches from Puerto Cortez say that a conference is being held by representatives of the two factions aboard the United States gunboat Tacoma. Local Hondurans said it was not probable this conference would result in a successor to Davila, because Bonilla is entitled to the presidency, from which he was ousted by Davila with the aid of Zelaya of Nicaragua, and nothing short of Bonilla's restoration would be accepted by him and his followers. They say Bonilla's men now control more than one-half the republic and the government of Olanchito and Yoro provinces is operated under Bonilla.

Suicide of Young Man.

Boonville, Ind., Feb. 8.—Declaring that his life had been a failure, Bernard Chandler, aged twenty-three, committed suicide in a cistern.

Deafness Cannot Be Cured.

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, Deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars, free.

Another Change.

The Hoosier Cash Grocery has once more changed hands. J. W. Hein has purchased it of William Keys who closed the store recently with the expectation of moving the stock to Jennings county. Mr. Hein purchased the Custer store on Bruce street several weeks ago and has consolidated the stocks at the Chestnut street location.

Large Class.

The Lady Maccabees will have a class of fifteen or twenty for initiation the latter part of the month. The Columbus team will come to give the work and after the latter there will be a banquet.

The Lowden bill authorizing the purchase of embassy buildings abroad has been passed in the house.

Sarah Bernhardt expects to come to America in 1915 to help celebrate the opening of the Panama canal.

The house has passed a bill providing for closer inspection of locomotive boilers by the interstate commerce commission.

It is reported at Shanghai that an eunuch stabbed the regent at Peking. The report is discredited, but it seems the regent is sick.

Mrs. Marie Nevins Bull, widow of Dr. William T. Bull, the famous surgeon, who died in 1909, is dead at her home in Newport, R. I.

The senate has passed the army appropriation bill substantially in the form in which it was reported from the committee on military affairs.

A bill creating a commission to recommend a $2,000,000 Lincoln memorial, to be erected in the District of Columbia, has been passed in congress.

An assignment for the benefit of creditors has been made by the Percy Ford company, a New York corporation, dealing in autos and accessories at Boston.

A dispatch from Peking states that the plague has broken out in the inner city. Owing to the insufficiency of the sanitary measures a terrible visitation is threatened.

The West Virginia legislature has voted to submit the state-wide prohibition amendment. This will give to a vote of the people the proposition of amending the constitution to declare the state dry after July 1, 1913.

Frank Klaus of Pittsburgh beat Willie Lewis of New York into a state of helplessness in the sixth round of a fight at New York, and would doubtless have knocked him out had it not been for the intervention of the referee.

Count Apponyi, who is nearly the most beloved as well as the most honored man in the kingdom of Hungary, and one of the strongest apostles in the continental movement for world peace, has arrived in New York and will tour the country as a preacher of peace.

J. M. Marsh, of Reddington, has many calls from all parts of the United States for his Indiana Runner ducks. This morning he shipped a box to Commerce, Ga., Millersburg, O., and also a number of birds to Winona Lake, Vienna and Ewing. He has been having much success with his ducks.

HAVE TAKEN CUE

On Reciprocity Pact.

MORE SPECIAL SESSION TALK

Some of the Members of the Minority Profess to Believe That if Action on Canadian Treaty Can Be Prevented President Will Be Obligated to Call a Special Session of New Congress—They Will Caucus Friday Night.

Washington, Feb. 8.—Taking a cue from their brethren on the house side, who have declared in favor of the reciprocity pact, the Democrats of the senate will caucus Friday night on Canadian reciprocity and the bill for the creation of a permanent tariff board. The call for the caucus, which was circulated by Senator Stone of Missouri, says that other subjects will also be considered.

The Democrats of the senate with four or five exceptions are very much in favor of caucus action for the ratification of the reciprocity agreement. Senator Bailey of Texas will oppose the agreement because of his opposition to the doctrine of free raw materials. He will be supported by Senator Smith of Maryland and Senator Simmons of North Carolina, who are as much opposed to free lumber as they were when they championed a revenue duty on lumber during the consideration of the Payne-Aldrich bill in the senate. The two Louisiana senators, who believe in the principle of protection to a degree, may also oppose favorable consideration on the agreement. Otherwise the Democrats of the senate are ready to stand with the Democrats of the house in making support for the reciprocity a party matter.

The possibility of a special session of congress is also to figure in the deliberations of the Democrats at the Friday caucus. Some of the members of the minority are of the opinion that it would be good party policy for the Democrats on the finance and foreign relations committee to vote against reporting the agreement to the senate. They profess to believe that if action on the treaty can be prevented at this session of congress, Mr. Taft will be obliged to call a special session of the new congress.

BANKER CONVICTED

Grand Larceny Charge Was Sustained
Against Montgomery.

New York, Feb. 8.—William R. Montgomery, who was president of the Hamilton bank when it closed its doors Oct. 23, 1907, was convicted of grand larceny in the first degree by a jury before Judge Rosalsky.

The indictment upon which Montgomery was tried charged the theft of $4,400. There are three other indictments against him, one charging the larceny of $45,000; one alleging an over-draft of $21,000, and the third an over-draft of $12,000. Montgomery was remanded to the Tombs for sentence on Feb. 14.

Gave Up His Pals.

Chicago, Feb. 8.—A man giving the name of Charles Willard was arrested and confessed that he was the robber who held up Rector's restaurant at 9 o'clock last Sunday morning, compelling Adams, the cashier, to hand over $3,300 that was in the safe. He implicated Joseph Caselin, the assistant head waiter, who was held up. He also gave the names of the other men who assisted him in the hold-up.

Seattle's Mayor Ousted.

Seattle, Feb. 8.—The first test of the "recall" in Washington politics was made Tuesday when Mayor Gill was ousted in favor of a reform candidate by a majority of about 2,000 votes. The woman vote, the first exercised since the suffrage amendment was adopted, was a decisive factor in the election, for the newly enfranchised voters turned out and participated in numbers almost equal to the men.

New Indiana Mine Inspector.

Indianapolis, Feb. 8.—Edward Barrett, state geologist, has appointed Frank I. Pearce of Brazil chief inspector of mines, to succeed James Epperson. Mr. Pearce received the highest grade at the recent competitive examination for the office of chief inspector. He has had seventeen years' experience in the mines.
